All data collected through a Session Replay shall be deleted after thirty (30) days.

“Cookies” are small text files, placed on a computer hard drive, that enable websites to remember a particular device. They are widely used to make websites work more efficiently for visitors and to provide web providers with traffic information.

Cookies allow the server to deliver personalized pages for users as cookies remember your preferences and make the interaction between you and the website smoother and more efficient. When users load the website, the browser retrieves their previous activity. This allows the browser to keep the user logged in and many other functions that make the navigation more effective.

Without cookies, we may not be able to provide certain services or features, and our website will not work as efficiently as intended. You can turn cookies off, but if you do this, you may not be able to access some of the website.

which you are currently located. The information these cookies collect remains anonymous and they cannot track your browsing activity on other websites.

- Performance cookies: These cookies collect information about how you use a website, (such as identifying which pages you go to most often), and record difficulties you may experience while using the website, such as error messages. All information collected by these cookies is aggregated and therefore anonymous. It is only used to improve the efficiency of the website.
- Targeting cookies or advertising cookies: These cookies are used to deliver advertisements tailored to you and your interests. They are also used to limit the number of times you see an advertisement as well as to help measure the effectiveness of the advertising campaign.
